The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Boston Medical Center, Boston University Chobanian & Avedisian School of Medicine is recruiting for a full-time Academic Minimally Invasive Gynecologic Surgeon

Do you have a passion to have social justice central to your career in Obstetrics and Gynecology? Do you want to be part of a health care system that is committed to outstanding clinical care for a highly diverse patient population? Do you want to have an active part in training the next generation of OBGYN clinicians at a vibrant academic institution with a strong commitment to research to reduce health outcome inequities for structurally marginalized populations? If so, consider joining our faculty. We seek motivated candidates who are prepared to contribute to our mission of excellence in clinical care, education, scholarly activities, and social justice and advocacy. We are deeply committed to diversity and inclusion.

BMC is more than a hospital. It is a network of support and care that touches the lives of hundreds of thousands of people in need each year. The institution has a strong focus on public health, both domestic and global, and a commitment to women's health demonstrated by recently renovated state of the art facilities. Our department and health system are committed to and focusing on eliminating racial disparities on health outcomes. We are seeking a MIG surgeon who has a similar focus and is committed to education, scholarship and capacity building. Ideally, we would want the person in this position to participate in building a comprehensive program to address the unmet needs of women with endometriosis.

We are a full service tertiary care service consisting of 41 physicians, 20 Certified Nurse Midwives, 7 Nurse Practitioners, 2 Physician Assistants, and 4 Genetic Counselors. We have an active full scope gynecological surgical practice, with a busy ambulatory care practice, with approximately 55,000 visits per year. 30% of our current faculty identify as Underrepresented in Medicine (URiM) and 50% of our residents identify as URiM.

Although this position has primarily clinical responsibilities, all faculty members are expected to participate in scholarly activities and resident and medical student education. We have an OB/GYN residency program with five residents per year.

We seek candidates whose experience, teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. The ideal candidates have a passion for care of underserved women.

Emphasizing community-based care, Boston Medical Center (BMC) is the largest safety-net hospital in New England and is committed to providing consistently high-quality and accessible health services to all, regardless of insurance status or any other considerations. The hospital is the primary teaching affiliate of the nationally ranked Boston University Chobanian & Avedisian School of Medicine, which has 800 students in its MD and PA programs. Boston University is a world class research institution with more than $250 million in research grants each year.

Minimum qualifications:

- Applicants must possess an MD/DO degree from an accredited medical school and have or be eligible to obtain a Massachusetts Medical License.
- Applicants must be board certified or be an active candidate for board certification in Obstetrics and Gynecology.
- Applicants must have completed a Fellowship in Minimally Invasive Gynecologic Surgery (MIGS) or have extensive experience in MIGS.
- Fluency in Spanish, and other languages other than English, is highly desirable, but not required

Applicants must have the ability to work collegially within a diverse environment and demonstrate a commitment to our institutional values regarding diversity, equity, and inclusion. BIPOC (Black/Brown, Indigenous, and other People of Color) applicants are encouraged to apply. Academic appointment will be at Boston University Chobanian & Avedisian School of Medicine; rank is commensurate with experience and CV. We offer a competitive salary and an attractive benefit package.
